Negro Farmers Of Montgomery County Hold Annual Conference

Having as his inspiration the presence of more than 200 substantial negro farmers of Montgomery County and the attractive exhibit of 2,500 pounds of home-grown pork and 105 dozens of eggs, President Benjamin F. Hubert, of the Georgia State College, was the principal speaker at the third annual conference of Montgomery County's colored farmers held at Alabama State Teachers' College on Friday.

Presented as a recently appointed member of the advisory committee of the National Illiteracy Commission, President Hubert began by urging every farmer to learn at least to read. In a practical and appealing fashion, the speaker emphasized the importance to every farmer of getting some land that he can love, finding out what that land can best produce, getting first class stock and everything else that can work for the farmer, recognizing that not only capital and labor but sense as well is necessary for successful farming, and participating in all the efforts at cooperative marketing that are set up by the proper county officials.

Other speakers at the morning session included County School Superintendent W. R. Harrison, Simon Roswald, of the State Fair, and D. E. McInnis, of the Royal Mills. The conference devoted the opening hour to community reports on the work of these units during the year.

For the afternoon, an interesting demonstration in the cutting and truing of a hog as done by a representative of the local Armour agency and an address by T. M. Campbell, regional supervisor of the Southern States were the chief features.

Ten prizes—five for the best exhibits of homegrown pork and five for the best three-dozen egg displays—that totalled $225 were announced by Haygood Patterson, chairman of the County Board of Revenue. The prize winners in order were William Phillips, William Lewis, I. D. Toles, J. P. Phillips and W. P. Puckett for the meats, and W. H. Hardman, Ellen Denard, Rosa Lucas, J. W. McCree and Fannie Jackson for the eggs. These prizes had been contributed by local merchants in response to the appeal made by the county agents—J. T. Alexander and A. M. Boynton.

The officers of the Montgomery County Colored Farmers Association as re-elected are O. C. Crowe, president; Sadie Jordan, secretary; Dan Isaiah, treasurer; W. C. Campbell, chairman extension committee, and Emma Jordan chairman Woman's Division.

Among the visitors at the conference were T. M. Campbell, E. C. Dobbs, V. C. Turner, C. H. Gibson and L. C. Hanna of the extension division, with headquarters at Tuskegee Institute; President J. F. Drake, of the A. & M. Institute at Normal; J. P. Phillips, M. L. Blackwell and L. R. Daly, who have been county agents in Montgomery County in previous terms; L. A. Edmondson and other representatives of the demonstration division of Montgomery County, and representative group of the colored ministers of the city.

HOLD MEETING OF SOUTH FARMERS

C. P. Organizes Farm

BIRMINGHAM, Aug. 27.—Over 125 share croppers, tenant farmers and farm laborers attended the opening meeting of the Communist Party election campaign in the framing sections of Alabama yesterday. The meeting was held at Whitney, Alabama in the heart of the cotton belt, some 40 miles north of Birmingham. Speakers were Seaton Worthy, Communist candidate for U. S. Senator from Alabama, Tom Johnson, District Organizer of the Communist Party and Harry Jackson, Organizer for the Trade Union Unity League. Roy Colley, a local farmer was chairman.

The share croppers and tenant farmers, most of them working on big company plantations, face absolute ruin this year as the price of cotton reaches new low levels daily. Local farmers predicted the worst year in the history of cotton raising in the south.

Following the mass meeting in the afternoon, an organization meeting of those who had joined the Communist Party was held and a farm unit composed of share croppers on a huge company plantation was organized. Several of the farmers subscribed to the "Southern Worker." Judging from the response at this first meeting the Communist Party will receive a substantial vote from the rural sections in the coming elections.

The Trade Union Unity League, Birmingham District, has announced that plans are under way for an intensive drive to organize the farm workers of this section into the Agricultural Workers Industrial League. Farm workers work from sun-up to sun-set for from $10 per month with board up.

CLARKE COUNTY TO HAVE FARMERS CONFERENCE JANUARY 15-16

(Special to the Birmingham Grove Hill, Ala., Nov. 26—(Special to the Birmingham Reporter)—The second annual Clarke County Negro Farmers Conference, and the first Annual Clarke County Negro Boys and Girls 4-H Club Camp will convene at the County Training School, Coffeeville, Alabama, January 15 and 16. The 15th will be given to the junior work of the county, and elaborate plans are being made for the program. Besides the practical demonstrations that the boys and girls will give, plans are being made to have a moving picture depicting health on the night of the 15th. Mr. C. J. Calloway, of Tuskegee Institute, will be the boys' and girls' day speaker. There will also be given demonstration on the 16th, which is Farmers' Day and Mr. Oscar W. Adams, of Birmingham, will speak to the farmers. Following the day's program there will be given a musical concert by a seven piece orchestra.

HAMPTON SENIOR SCORES HIT AT COUNTRY LIFE ASSOCIATION MEET

Morrell C. Talbert, Only Negro Attending,
Speaks Twice, Once Over Radio

Special To Journal and Guide

MADISON, Wis.—Morrell C. Talbert, senior student of agriculture at Hampton Institute, was the only Negro in attendance at the five-day conference of the American Country Life Association which ended at the University of Wisconsin here last Friday.

Mr. Talbert took in all the functions connected with the organization, made two talks on Negro farm life—one over the radio—, was appointed to two committees.

The conference was a bringing together of all the agencies, social and economic, which are interested in, and working for, the higher development of the life of the farmer. Its main theme was "Standards of Living."

Representatives were present from every state in the union and a number of leaders in the agricultural and economic world appeared as speakers.

Former Gov. Lowden, Illinois, the president of the association, presided at the meetings; Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior, spoke on "Continental Conservation"; James C. Stone, vice-chairman of the federal farm board, dealt with the "Farm Family and American Life."

A plea to farmers to organize to suit the present machine age was voiced by Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin; Miss Grace Abbott of the children's bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor lead group meetings on the health of farm children.

Aspects of agricultural life in other lands were presented by George Russell, Irish philosopher-economist; Dr. Basil M. Bensin, Czecho-Slovakia; and Dr. A. G. Arnold, a recent delegate to the International Conference on Country Life held at Liege, Belgium.

In the student section of the conference were over 100 delegates. As a member of this group Mr. Talbert took part in discussions on "Collegiate Clubs in Relation to the Standard of Living of Rural Communities," "What Rural Life Clubs Are Doing to Influence Standards of Living," and the "Development of Leadership for Improving Standards of Living."

Mr. Talbert explained to his group the plight of the Negro farmer under the title of "The Negro in the South and the American Standards of Living;" and in the discussion afterwards members of the audience almost unanimously admitted that they had never paid any real attention to the situation of the Negro farmer in their thinking and planning.

"The Problem of the Rural Negro" was the topic discussed over the University of Wisconsin radio station by Mr. Talbert.

Before the conference closed Mr. Talbert was appointed to the committee on nominations and membership.

Conference Negro Farmers March 3-4

Plans Being Carried Forward by Leaders of Colored Farmers—White Educators to Speak

Plans for holding a conference of colored farmers of Gadsden county on March 3 and 4, are being carried forward as rapidly as possible, with full support of leaders of the colored race and a great deal of enthusiasm among the farmers and others who will cooperate to make this one of the biggest events ever put on in this section for colored farmers.

A church choir have been invited to meet next Monday night, February 18, at the assembly hall over Dr. Stevens' drug store for the purpose of organizing a chorus of 50 voices to entertain the farmers conference.

Among the church choirs that will be represented Monday night are Mt. Moriah church, Arnett's church and St. James. All other churches are urged to take part in these activities.

A number of farmers have stated that they will have exhibits of various crops at the conference. In addition to these demonstrations of what is being done in the county, the growers will be on hand to tell others about the methods they used in getting better crops.

The conference will be addressed by a number of white educators, and some of the best speakers of the colored race. It is stated by those in the lead of this movement that they are receiving enthusiastic cooperation from all the colored citizens who have pride in their homes and their work.

The conference is being sponsored by representatives of the Agricultural Extension Service, as well as public spirited leaders of the colored race in Gadsden county.

Colored Farmers To Meet Monday

Conference of Farmers Meets At Stephens High School—Farm Products Be Exhibited

What promises to be one of the greatest events for colored farmers of Gadsden county ever staged will get under way Monday, March 3, when a chorus of 50 voices will take part in the opening exercises of the colored farmers' conference and fair at the Stephens high school auditorium.

Welcome addresses by Mayor Graves, Secretary Williams, of the chamber of commerce, and a special address by C. H. Chapman, of the F. A. & M. College, Tallahassee, will be features of the opening exercises. Tuesday at 11 o'clock A. T. Turner, district agent, will open the exercises. Addresses will be made by A. P. Spencer, Julia A. Miller, and others. A great parade is scheduled for 3:30 o'clock, which will be led by police and the F. A. & M. College band. Colored citizens of the county are expected to take part in this parade, including all colored school children and teachers.

Tuesday night beginning at 8 o'clock, the conference will hear addresses by C. H. Gray, superintendent of public instruction; D. E. Williams, state supervisor for negro education; Bishop R. A. Grant, of Alabama; Dr. H. Y. Toombs and Curry of Jacksonville. Old time singing will be another feature of the Tuesday night meeting.

Exhibits of farm products, from the best bunch of peanuts to the best bale of hay, or the best peck of meal, will be shown. Home demonstration work, from lamp shades to molasses pull candy will be exhibited and awards made.

The conference is being conducted by A. W. Bowls, county agent, and Ellie L. Joiner, Jeanes county supervisor, and Prof. H. S. Jackson, principal of Stephens high school.

All colored farmers and others interested in the advancement of education for the colored race are urged to take part in this conference.

Colored Farmers
Hold Interesting Meeting Saturday

Colored farmers representing Gardi, Caters Grove, Odum, Mt. Pleasant, Screven, Reddishville, and Pinholloway were in attendance at a very interesting and enthusiastic meeting held at the colored school building last Saturday.

Among them was an old pioneer land owner of Wayne County in the person of Uncle Virgil Stripling, who thrilled the meeting with a history of his past achievements. He said that he was still in the business of farming from which he has found it very hard to break even, and that he has learned that in order to win the game, one will have to play the modern, or scientific way. That to farm any other way the farmer would always find himself on the negative side. That after all these years of farming he needed helping along.

Principal Brown of Screven paved the way by saying the adult farmer had just as well fall in line with the modern method of farming, regardless of how long he tries to do the thing before he gets very far and independent.

The Wayne County Colored teachers Association in session after a brief session visited the meeting and contributed to it many valuable suggestions.

The organization was perfected by electing Rochelle Johnson, president; Rev. C. Mangrum, vice-president; W. T. Tillman, secretary and Rev. Jas. Andrews, treasurer.

Monthly meetings will be held Saturdays after the first Tuesday in each month.

The Colored Farmers Conference This Week

Noted Speakers Will Appear On Program In Adel.

The attention of the white and colored people is again called to the Colored Farmers Institute which is being held here this week on Thursday and Friday at the colored school auditorium. Ella M. Hall, the Jeanes supervisor of the school, and Henry E. Dent the principal, and other teachers in the school have put forth every effort together with the Board of Trustees, to make this an outstanding event in the history of the school and they are bringing some of the best talent among the white and colored educators in the state and country here for the two days. They state that Dr. Carver, of Tuskegee, who occupies one of the foremost places in the country among the colored people, will speak on Friday afternoon. Dr. J. W. Holley, Pres. State School, Albany, Ga., and one of the sanest and best colored men in the state, will speak Friday morning. On Friday morning State Superintendent M. L. Duggan and Hon. Walter B. Hill, Supervisor Department of Education will speak also, it is stated. On Thursday Mr. W. W. Webb of Hahira, Prof. J. C. Thomas, County Agent Mallard and Mayor J. J. Parrish, as well as several well-known colored speakers will speak. W. M. Hubbard, principal of Forsyth A. & M. Colored School, will speak on Thursday evening and A. Tabor, supervisor of vocational education for colored people, will speak on Friday morning.

The white people are cordially invited to hear the addresses and see what the colored farmers of Cook county are accomplishing.

Pierce and Ware Growers to Gather at Court House in Waycross.

An important meeting of negro farmers of Ware and Pierce county has been called for a Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the Center City High School auditorium in Waycross, it was announced today by Alexander Hurse, negro agricultural agent for Ware county.

The purpose of the meeting primarily is to discuss an increased cotton acreage, with an emphasis on the 1-inch staple as a preference over 7-8 inch staple.

"The market is flooded with 7-8 inch staple, with the result that prices are not the best in the world, and it is our purpose to induce farmers of this section to plant the 1-inch staple," Agent Hurse states. "It is true that the yield is not quite so heavy, but the difference in price will more than make up for the loss in poundage."

V. C. Baker, representing the Georgia Cotton Growers' Association, will be the principal speaker at the meeting.

Conference Called At Fort Valley

For more than twenty-five years the Fort Valley High and Industrial School has been striving to improve conditions among the colored people of Georgia, especially those living in the Fort Valley section. Among other means of reaching the masses has been the holding of a Farmers' Conference each year.

This year's meeting promises to be one of unusual interest with its fine display of Home-Cured Meats, Pure Bred Poultry awarding prizes to winners in State Contests and addresses by Agricultural experts and prominent citizens of Georgia and other sections.

A representative from the United States Department of Agriculture is expected to answer questions and tell in detail just how the Federal Government is trying to assist farmers financially. The closing address will be made by Bishop W. A. Fountain, D. D. of the A. M. E. church, Diocese of Georgia.

Believing that every man or woman attending this meeting will be helped, we earnestly appeal to all employers not only to permit but to encourage their colored tenants or wage hands to attend at least one day. A most cordial invitation is extended to employers also.

Colored School Fair, Farmers' Conference

The rural schools of Macon County under the supervision of Mrs. Flournoy, Jeanes Industrial Teacher, held their third annual school fair at the Macon County Training School, Thursday and Friday, March 20 and 21.

The judges rendered their decisions Thursday evening, awarding 1st prize to New York School, second prize to Rocky Mount, and third prize to Oglethorpe. The Training school not competing as a unit.

More than sixty prizes were awarded to individuals for work of excellent quality, prizes being donated by the Merchants of Montezuma, Oglethorpe, and Ideal, as well as the communities in which the schools are located.

There was on display more than fifteen hundred articles, made by the school children of the county, over one thousand of which were displayed by the Training School. The work of the Home Economics Department, and the Vocational Agricultural Department, deserving special mention.

On Thursday night a buffet supper was served the teachers of the county under the auspices of the County Teachers Association. On Friday morning the County Superintendent of Education, Mr. J. P. Nelson, delivered an excellent address to the teachers and friends, as well as Rev. H. C. Jones, after which the county wide spelling match took place. Little Reedy Sceay, of the seventh grade at the Training School won the spelling match, dahlia being the deciding word of the contest. This is the third spelling match of the county wide interest that has been won by Reedy in as many years. During the intermission, Montezuma won over the fast Fort Valley volley ball team in a decisive manner. After a chicken dinner prepared and served by the girls of the Home Economics Department, under the supervision of Miss Wood. The Conference of farmers and their wives assembled and were addressed by Rev. Crawford of the American Sunday School Union, and Prof. H. A. Hunt, Principal of the Fort Valley High and Industrial School. The topics for discussion were led by the farmers of the county and their wives.

Friday night at eight o'clock the Vocational Agricultural boys under the supervision of Prof. G. L. Smith rendered their famous play "Soil Robber", a mock trial, and an original one act play by Benny Mathis a member of the eighth grade under the direction of Mrs. B. B. Dobbs, instructor in literature.

The climax was reached when the large audience, overflowing the spacious auditorium to the lawn of the school campus was addressed by Prof. F. R. Lampkin, State Rosenwald Agent.

Those who witnessed the fair acclaim it the greatest in the history of Macon County. Among the notables present and visitors were: Dr. H. C. Jones, Mr. C. H. Richardson, Mr. G. T. Mason, Prof. Had-dock, Miss Josephine Bethel, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Dr. Mullino, Mrs. J. H. Happ, Mrs. Rape, Mrs. Hicks, Mrs. J. B. Guerry, Mrs. DeVaughn, Mrs. H. A. NEGRO FARMERS' CONFERENCE SATURDAY

On Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at Central City college the colored farmers of the county will assemble in their first quarterly meeting since January, as we were rained out on the first Saturday.

This is an important meeting and it is earnestly hoped that every man who can will attend. Especially are members of the several agricultural committees urged to be present as State Agent Stone will be present to install committees and to offer us some mighty fine suggestions along lines of interest to Bibb county farmers.

In addition to Mr. Stone, Professor Alva Tabor and Professor Thomas E. Roberts, state vocational agricultural men of Savannah, will be present and speak. These two men have charge of the teaching of vocational agriculture in nearly fifty schools of Georgia. Hear them.

Immediately after the close of the meeting, which is not expected to last over two or three hours, a short tour has been arranged for the entire group to one of the finest soil building demonstrations in the county. Don't miss it.

500 ATTEND BURKE COUNTY MEETING

Insured
Farmers Listen To Many Fine Addresses

Savannah, Ga.
Waynesboro, Ga.—A county wide mass meeting of Negroes was recently held under the auspices of the Burke county farmers association and the Parent-Teachers Association cooperating at the Waynesboro High and Industrial School last Friday and more than 500 people were present and listened to interesting and inspiring addresses by both white and colored leaders.

Among the persons on the program were E. B. Gresham, superintendent of Burke county schools, who stressed the importance of school attendance and told the mass meeting that this is the first step toward better schools, better facilities with which to work, better teachers and better salaries.

Mrs. Arthur Evans and Mrs. Orange Gresham, officials of the county Parent Teachers Association (white), gave very inspiring and instructive talks on the work which the Parent-Teachers Association of Burke county is doing for the white schools emphasizing exhibits in the women's department that it is best to attempt one thing and carry it to completion than to include more things than the association would be able to successfully carry out.

The mass meeting was honored by the presence of W. C. Hillhouse, one of Georgia's twelve master farmers, who lives in Burke county and his son, Dr. Albert Hillhouse, who gave an address on the cotton situation in the country and urged adoption of the diversified farming program.

Other guests and speakers were Prof. J. E. Browne, principal of Walker Baptist Institute, Augusta, who spoke on "The Duties of The Trustees to the Community School," Rev. E. D. Giddins, pastor of the Haven Memorial M. E. Church, spoke on the needs of the colored schools of the county and urged upon the board of education through its superintendent to provide better schools, longer school term and better salaries for Negro teachers.

Brief and instructive talks were made by Prof. Alva Tabor, supervisor of agricultural education for Negro schools, Savannah; J. H. Twitty, principal, Jenkins County Training School, Millen; E. G. Washington, principal Springfield Agricultural and Industrial School, Sparta; W. H. Bryan, principal, Sylvania H. and I. School, Sylvania, and Rev. J. L. Phelps, principal, Boggs Academy, Keysville, Ga.

The excellent exhibits displayed by the farmers and members of the P.-T. A. departments attracted attention and interest. In order to stimulate the production of quality farm products and the conservation of fruits and vegetables for home consumption the white merchants and business men of Burke county provided some very valuable prizes for those displaying the best poultry, new corn, sweet potatoes, sugar cane, green vegetables, canned fruits and vegetables pickles, jellies, jams and preserves.

Mr. Boldey, teacher of vocational agriculture at the Waynesboro High School, stressed the need for agricultural part-time and evening schools and also served as judge of the agricultural exhibits assisted by Prof. J. H. Twitty. Judges for were Mrs. Arthur Evans, Mrs. R. L. Miller, Mrs. Chas. Evans, and Mrs. Dade Jordan.

The mass meeting gave a rising vote of thanks to Prof. P. A. Evans, principal, Waynesboro High and Industrial School, Mrs. Lula Fuller, president, county Parent-Teachers Association and L. P. Myhan, teacher of vocational agriculture, for sponsoring the meeting.

NEGROES WILL CONVENE

Farmers of Bibb and Other Counties to Assemble at College Here

By S. H. LEE
(Negro County Agent)

Friday morning at 10 o'clock the Negro farmers of Bibb and adjoining counties will hold their last meeting for 1930 at Central City college. For the next five or more years colored farmers of Georgia should make soil building the foundation stone of all their farming activities. This idea will be carried out next Friday with emphasis being placed on the early sowing of vetch and Austrian winter peas. The Macon seed houses report quite a reduction in the price of these seeds this season which places them within the reach of every farmer at least for from one to five acres. Three dollars will plant one acre. Fifteen dollars will buy seed and inoculation for five acres. These five acres planted to in these crops right now or at least within the next 30 days will give the farmer next spring at least $150 worth of good feed, plus three months of good grazing plus from ten to fifteen dollars worth of the world's best fertilizer and humus added to his soil from these plants.

The early seeding of wheat, rye, and oats will also be stressed at this meeting. In fact no farmer whether he be owner, or renter, or tenant can afford to miss this meeting. Some of the best white speakers in the county will appear on the program. Don't miss it. Home Demonstration Agent, M. L. Wesley also desires that the farm women come too, because it will take their help and insistence, in many cases to get the men to do even a few of the many fine things that will be brought out in this meeting.

MONROE COLORED FARMERS TO ADDRESS BIG FARMERS
MEETING IN MACON

By S. H. Lee.

At this season of the year farmers of both races are getting together for from two days to two weeks to study their peculiar problems.

Such a meeting for the colored farmers of Bibb and all adjoining counties will be held at Central City College, East Macon, Jan. 15-17, under auspices of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the College of Agriculture at Athens, the Bibb County Board of Education and other local agencies cooperating.

Discussion on the first day Wednesday, will center around vegetables and truck crops—their insect enemies and diseases. An expert from the college will close the discussions. Besides making sufficient corn, wheat, meat, sweet potatoes, a good cotton crop and ten tons of velvet beans for winter feed, one colored farmer and his wife sold over $700 worth of vegetables, melons, other truck, chickens, butter and eggs, this past year.

Thursday's program will center around farm poultry and farm meat. Two experts from the College will close these discussions. Entirely too much meat is allowed to spoil every year from improper curing and treatment after curing. Dr. Richardson from the College will demonstrate on a hog killed the day before just how to avoid these losses. The big topics for Friday will be discussed, Soil Building and Making Cotton Under Boll Weevil Conditions.

Appearing on these programs from Lamar will be George Bush, Ernest Willis, Jesse Holloway, Claude Smith, T. M. Bush. From Monroe Herbersoy beans on his 13 acres in Monroe county. He has now been able to build a five-room house and he has a surplus of 75 bushels of beans

Hampton, Asmond Wyche, Preston Ralls, and Tommie Davis. Some of these men made from 20 to 35 bales of cotton in 1929. Editor Macon Telegraph and Mr. J. E. Conwell, Pres. Georgia Cotton Growers Co-operative Association. A large attendance from both Lamar and Monroe is urged.

NEGRO FARMERS CLOSE SESSION

Those Present Urged to "Grow Your Living at Home"

NEGRO EDUCATORS HEARD

The concluding meeting of the three-day session of Negro farmers of Bibb and adjoining counties, which was held at the Central City college yesterday, emphasized Grow Your Living, Don't Buy It. Practically every speaker introduced by S. H. Lee, Negro county agent, under whose direction the program was planned, touched upon the subject of growing things rather than buying them.

During the morning session, Dr. W. G. Lee spoke on the importance of building soil with vetch and Austrian peas. "A good many farmers talk about farming 35 acres with one mule," Dr. Lee said, "but I say to you take 10 acres, but cultivate only 20 a year. Let the other 20 acres be planted to cover crops and turned under. With such intensive cultivation your results will be twice as satisfactory as trying to cover too much territory and not do it well. Remember in turning under a crop of vetch or peas, it has to have time to rot before seed are planted behind it.

Gadson Speaks

Rev. J. H. Gadson, president of Central City college, spoke of the recent meeting on inter-racial matters he had attended. He urged the necessity of education on the part of the Negro so that he would be able to take the place which is being made for him.

The county agent, S. H. Lee, said that the Negro should make himself so desired by the white man that he would always have a farm ready and anxious to have him as a tenant.

Ernest Willis, route 2, Goggans, told how he had paid off $1,200 debt and stayed in the clear by raising soy beans on his 13 acres in Monroe county. He has now been able to build a five-room house and he has a surplus of 75 bushels of beans to sell this year. Each year he makes six bales of cotton, which is clear money, as he raises all feed and meat.

E. H. Hampton, Negro, Culloden, told how he had converted a swampy land into a valuable pasture by planting Dallas, carpet grass and lespedeza.

In the afternoon session, D. F. Bruce, Bibb county agent, told of the agencies which were available for loans and emphasized the necessity for a financial statement and a productive farm. He later told of cotton marketing and advised use of the co-operative agencies available.

Educators Speak

A number of visiting Negro educators spoke briefly during the afternoon session. They were W. M. Hubbard, principal of the A. and M. state school at Forsyth; J. M. Deas, principal of the Tifton county high school; W. A. Fountain, president of Morris Brown college; W. S. Davige, president of Clark university, Atlanta, and A. Z. Kelsey, principal of Cabin Creek High school, Griffin.

James Norton, Jr., Atlanta, of the Georgia Cotton Growers' Co-operative association, told of the organization and its several departments.

The association was available for white or colored farmers, he said, and he added: "There is one department, the legal department, which has never come in contact with the Negro members. It is a matter of record that we have never had to sue a Negro farmer to obtain payment of a loan." He emphasized the fact that a government grader graded the cotton sent to the co-operative and that it was done by number without knowledge of the owner. Further, he said that the grader was not charged with selling the cotton.

O. D. Watson, Dublin, field agent for the Georgia Cotton Growers' Co-operative association, told how the loan department functioned.

U. S. Fuller and T. G. Rutherford, Culloden, made brief talks in the morning session.

NEGROES BEGIN FARM SESSIONS

Middle Georgia Conference Has Big Opening Attendance

SEVERAL SPEAKERS HEARD

Although there was some delay on account of rain, in the program of the Middle Georgia Farmers' conference at the Central City college yesterday, there were about 100 Negroes present and an additional number is expected today as the program continues with further talks on farm subjects.

In the discussion of truck crops Henry Moore and Ella Parker stressed the fact that these crops can't be grown on poor land. They had continually built up their land and now grow many varieties.

Albert Burnett related that although he plants cotton he makes it a practice to plant some kind of vegetable every 30 days. In this manner he always has some coming in to help out the cotton money. He made six bales of cotton and seven and a half tons of velvet beans as well.

Joeby Colbert, Lizella, told how he had made $700 from five acres of pimento peppers. Also he sells vegetables from his place to the majority of residents both white and colored in the community.

Land Must Be Broken

Henry Land, whose farm is along the Ocmulgee, said that he found a thorough breaking of the land most important. In the last 22 years, he has raised all of his own meat and incidentally, he said, he had not taken a drink of whisky in that time.

Several of the women present spoke of the help that could be given to their husbands on the farm. Mamie Tinsley said that there was not any work on the farm in which the could not help whether it was planting or cultivating or looking after the cattle. Laura Burnett agreed with the former statement but said that it was necessary to look ahead in planning. It is necessary to know in January what you will need in May, she said.

Walter P. Jones, superintendent of the Bibb county schools, made a talk on the importance of training children. He said that he was interested in the programs of training for all but was particularly interested in the development of the future citizens. "It is becoming more and more difficult for any one to succeed without the ability to read the printed page," he said.

Bruce Is Speaker

D. F. Bruce, county agricultural agent, spoke on the production of the cotton and the raising of poultry.

He is also on the program for day when he will have more to do about cotton raising.

E. E. Butler, principal of the Ferson High school, appeared on afternoon program. A talk on home canning was given during the afternoon by Margaret Toomer, agent of Peach-Houston counties.

O. S. O'Neal, agent of the same counties, gave a demonstration in hog killing. The carcass will be used today for a demonstration in the proper method of cutting and curing home meat by Dr. A. G. G. Richardson, head of the veterinary department of the state college of agriculture.

The program will continue today under the direction of S. H. Lee, Negro county agent, and Mamie Wesley, Negro home demonstration agent.

There will be discussions of winnowing, home improvement, poultry and an address by the state Negro agent, P. H. Stone, Fort Valley.

NEGRO FARMERS ORGANIZE BODY AT MIDWAY MEETING Over 300 of Them to Help Marketing Plan

A group of 300 colored farmers representing all sections of Liberty county, and parts of Glynn and Effingham counties, held an all-day meeting at the Presbyterian Church in Midway yesterday with the purpose of organizing a co-operative marketing association in accordance with the program of the federal farm relief board.

A temporary organization was formed with a representative from each community, and plans were made for another meeting next Tuesday at Dorchester to effect a permanent organization.

Those in attendance at the meeting manifested keen interest in the project. The gathering was addressed by C. B. Jones, Jr., chairman of the Liberty county commissioners, who saw in the proposed association an aid to the progress and prosperity of the county; by C. B. Jones, Sr., president of the Board of Education; and by County Agricultural Agent Eunice.

In addition speakers were P. H. Stone, state agricultural agent for colored farmers, Camilla Weems, state home demonstration for colored people, and B. F. Hubert, president of Georgia State Agricultural College. Prof. Hubert declared that organized into the association, the colored farmers will have a chance for prosperity, but none without organization.

Colored Farmers of Ware and Pierce Counties Meet in Institute At Center High School.

In view of the fact that most of the colored farmers of Ware and Pierce are not getting fair returns from the soil, there will be held a farmers' institute, Friday, January 17, at the Center High School of Waycross.

The day has come when the Negro farmers must produce enough food and feed stuff for their families and livestock if they are to continue in this vocation. Stress will be put on food and feed production on the farm. Demonstrations will be given in table setting, culling poultry, how to save farm cured meat through the winter and how to care for a club pig.

The farm and home demonstration agents are asking your hearty cooperation in making this meeting this meeting a success. This meeting will start at 9:30 A. M. and close at 3:30 P. M.

Realizing as we do the real necessity of a more thorough understanding of progressive farming, we are taking this method of calling the farmers from all over Madison county and adjoining counties that we may get together and discuss our farm and other problems; and make the year of 1930 the best in the history of our lives.

The future outlook in the agricultural world is brighter today than ever, and it is up to you and me to get our share. annual Farmers' Conference was held recently at the Madison County Training School, 5 miles southwest of Canton, on Highway 51. The conference was presided over by S. L. The conference was one of the big things whereby all enterprises and problems pertaining to the progress of our race and our county and state can be solved.

consider this a great opportunity for the members of our race, and hope they will take advantage of this chance to secure the structure of our civilization. The conference was one of the big things whereby all enterprises and problems pertaining to the progress of our race and our county and state can be solved.

the delegates and visitors to the annual Farmers' Conference assembled at the Utica Institute, 18th day of February, 1930, discussing and hearing able reports of the various problems and questions of vital interest to us as farmers, citizens of our state and nation, and members of the negro race, do hereby make the following recommendations: 1. We emphatically urge our people to get more land, both for the purpose of farming, and for the purpose of holding for a future rise in value. We believe that land is just now at the lowest price and can be had on the most liberal terms of recent years in our section. We con-recommend that whenever possible parents cooperate with teachers in our public and district schools in providing recreational and community life programs that will tend to keep the young people satisfied with life on the soil.

"7. Thrift is an old word, but is never too old to be urged on our people. It is by thrift that the proper habits of right living are formed. A thriftless race will forever be a helpless race. We urge that we not only try to systematically save a part of what we make, but that our children be trained in thrift, by savings accounts, however small, with savings banks, wherever possible.

"8. The betterment of our race in general should receive the sober consideration and judgment of our leaders in every community. We recommend that whenever public meetings are called, some man of learning be asked to address our people on race progress and race betterment.

"9. Negro business is admittedly in its infancy, when compared with the present gigantic combinations of capital that we see on every hand. But as negroes we can somewhat safeguard our own interests by making a standing rule to trade with our own people whenever we can. By this method we can make jobs for our own that we could not get otherwise.

"10. The negro press is growing increasingly strong, and we note this growth with a feeling of pride. The race needs a strong and respected mouthpiece in America, and we urge our people to support that section of the negro press that is progressive, and yet sanely working for our best interests. We recognize the value of all negro propaganda, but would not encourage that section of the press that seeks to show the dark side of our lives to the exclusion of all else. We heartily endorse all news published that shows the true progress our race is making, not only within its own sphere of activity, but in inter-racial work as well. We realize we have many white friends who are willing to help us to the fullest extent of their power and we welcome such help.

"11. On our farms we urge our farmers to take better care of their livestock, and to seek to improve their herd, in cattle, hogs, horses, etc., with purebred whenever possible.

"12. Church life in our communities should continue to play an increasingly important part. Religion is the foundation of character, is what brought our fathers and mothers across many an unfathomable depth, and we reaffirm our faith in the God who delivered us from 250 years of slavery.

"13. Our community life should likewise be more intensely cultivated, particularly for our young people. Young people today must have more amusement, more freedom of expression, and more development than we ourselves enjoyed, and we der by C. L. Gibson, vocational agricultural instructor, who was selected temporary secretary after the election of John H. Powell as temporary chairman.

Short talks were made by a number of the farmers telling of their needs and explaining plans to meet the emergency. Practical advice was given in talks by Dr. W. P. Kyle, C. V. Thurmond, A. M. Snowden, B. F. Brooks and C. F. Bolton.

E. P. Booze suggested a committee of 12, three from each of the divisions of the county, to bring in recommendations for a permanent Farmers' Co-Operative Association as soon as the survey was completed. The committee was made of the following: From the north end, C. F. Bolton, P. R. McCarty and George Holmes, Sr.; from the south end, W. F. Davis, Luther Johnson and A. G. Simmons; from the east side, W. A. Northington, Andy Powell and Johnny Frye; from the west side, Jim Jones, Penny Smith and T. S. Morris.

The landlords pledged themselves to do everything possible to aid their tenants, and the renters and sharecroppers promised to harvest and save everything fit for feed, and to pick cotton clean and as quickly as possible so that the best price can be secured when it is sold.

THOUSANDS ATTEND DELTA STATE CONFERENCE

Co-operation Pays Big Dividend to Tillers of the Soil
4-15-30

Howard Miss., August 14—In addressing the Mississippi Units of the National Federation of Colored Farmers, convened at this little rural center in the heart of the Delta, Leon R. Harris, editor of the Modern Farmer and national secretary of the organization declared, "The voice of the Negro farmers of Mississippi will be heard today around the world. First of our race to accept the gospel of cooperation, you will also be first to reap the rewards of co-operation—freedom from debt slavery—ownership of farm and home—the privilege of being American citizens in America—these are the rewards of co-operation and they shall be yours. I admire your common sense—your courage—your faith. You have blazed a way to economic independence that all the colored farmers of the Nation will eventually follow." This was the first convention of organized Negro farmers ever held in America. It was a "good-time"

NEGRO FARMERS CONFERENCE

Mound Bayou Group Outlines Resolutions From Drouth.

MOUND BAYOU, Miss., Aug. 27.—Farmers of the Mound Bayou colony met in the auditorium of the Mound Bayou public school building to discuss their condition caused by the severe drouth, and to organize along the lines suggested by the president's relief committee to secure governmental aid. The meeting was called to or-meeting but these farmers did not meet only to have a good time. They were there—more than five thousand of them—sober and thoughtful, and the way they carried out their program, their interest in it and their decorum, would put to shame some of the most "enlightened" audiences.

Members were present representing twenty-seven Units from ten Mississippi counties. Representatives were also present from Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas and Illinois. The convention was entertained by the Holmes County Units, under the general chairmanship of Mr. C. C. Richardson. Mr. Richardson is the owner of a farm of two hundred four acres and is one of the most progressive farmers of the county. The Holmes County Units boast a membership of over six hundred, which is the largest farm organization in any county in the state, white or colored.

Greetings to the Convention were given by those who live in communities where antagonism has developed, can move if they are persecuted and they will move. They realize now that the United States is larger than the county in which they were born.

The National Federation of Colored Farmers is engaged in a mighty effort to help the Negro racial group in the United States and to help the United States. There is no excuse for so much ignorance and poverty,—especially among colored farmers. There is no excuse for a million lives going to waste. This country needs colored farmers but it does not need Negro peons. It is the objective and the duty of the National Federation of Colored Farmers to teach its members to farm intelligently,—to help them to get higher prices for what they produce,—to assist them in getting lower and more reasonable prices for the supplies they need and must purchase,—to assist tenant-farmer members in obtaining farms of their own,—to advise and instruct its members on the means and methods of obtaining loans on property and crops,—to protect them from dishonesty, greed and graft,—to teach them to practice co-operation that they may obtain all the benefits of co-operation. If this program pinches a few who have been living off the Negro farmer and getting wealthy off the Negro farmer, we can't help it.

But the organization of Negro farmers will not injure any honest merchant or planter permanently. The money the farmer saves on groceries and supplies will eventually be spent for radios, automobiles, washing machines, gasoline engines, cream separators and many other articles that will not be purchased co-operatively. The more one has the more one wants and the more he will get. A man who wants much is worth far more to his community and country than a man who wants little.

Organized Negro farmers will be able to help you far more in the future than will the unorganized. So let them organize. Help them organize. Get their friendship now, and the friendship of their organization. Get it while you can. Stop trying to oppose a good thing and a right thing. Your opposition only makes it stronger and "it is hard for thee to kick against the pricks."

The Convention was called to order at 9:30, with C. C. Richardson presiding. After devotional exercises a welcome address on behalf of the Holmes County Units was delivered by Rev. C. C. Crafton, Tchula. Response was made by Hon. B. W. Green of the Bolivar County Unit and Mayor of Mound Bayou. Mayor Green stressed the importance of organization and co-operation. He said that the farmers of his state had started something that could not help but redound to their own good and he urged them to hold on to the organization for dear life.

The official roll-call by W. Moore, general secretary of the Convention, acquainted the assemblage with the fact that representatives were present from every Unit in Mississippi. Miss Martha Chalton, prominent school-teacher, and member of Holaday Chapel Unit, Louise, and a special organizer of the Federation, spoke on the "Necessity of Organizing." Her address was well received. Five-minute talks on "Home Canning" and "Benefits of a Home Garden" were made by several of the representatives.

An inspiring address was made by Hon. E. P. Booze, noted Mississippi publicist of Mound Bayou. Mr. Booze urged his hearers to bear the responsibilities of American citizenship and to demand the privileges of American citizens. He told them to pay their taxes and try to register and vote whether they could or not. He also expressed the hope that the Convention next year would be held at Mound Bayou.

An old-fashioned barbecue was served at noon-hour and was enjoyed by all present. The afternoon session was enlivened by addresses from Col. Sol High, prominent undertaker and planter of Canton, Miss., and by Leon R. Harris, national secretary. Col. High is a native Mississippian and a self-made man. He is the owner of a six-hundred acre plantation and employs thirteen tenants. He is the sweet potato king of our group in his state and has now over two hundred acres planted. Col. High told the farmers that there should be no strife between white and colored farmers of the state. He said that all must continue living together and working together for the best interests of both. In discussing his subject, "Marketing Fruits and Vegetables," he related his own experiences and gave some valuable advice relative to grading and packing. He also urged his hearers to raise more vegetables and fruits. He emphasized the fact that right now the farmers of Mississippi have an opportunity to plant fall gardens and assured them that the proceeds from these would enable them to have money for the holidays. They would not have to resort to the common practice of borrowing at excessive interest rates.

Mr. Harris spoke of the organization and objectives of the National Federation of Colored Farmers. He emphasized the Federation's slogan, "Stay on the Farm," and proved by pointed illustrations how the organization was helping its members make and save more money. He urged the farmers to be loyal to the first co-operative organization they could call their own and assured them that help was forthcoming for all who would try to help themselves.

As some of the members had driven from fifty to more than one hundred miles to attend the meetings, there was no night session. The second day's session was devoted to reports, official conference and discussions relative to the general business of the Federation. All Units that are purchasing home and farm supplies co-operatively reported that their members were saving from twenty-five to forty cents on the dollar and that in many cases they were getting better merchandise. The Secretary reported that a Georgia Unit was shipping watermelons to Chicago and that another Alabama Unit was preparing to ship sweet potatoes in car-lots. He informed the officers of the various Units assembled that they must plan that their members produce co-operatively as they would be able to market in car-lots and get the benefit of cheaper freight rates and higher prices.

Of particular interest to farmers' wives was the plan announced by the secretary that Canning Clubs were to be organized in connection with every Unit. Each Unit will purchase an improved type of canning apparatus now on the market and the product will be assembled and sold under one label. Mississippi is destined to become a great fruit and vegetable producing state and the culture of much products will add materially to the farmer's income.

Resolutions were passed endorsing the work and plans of the National officers and thanking them for services rendered. Those who attended the meetings expressed themselves as being very optimistic concerning the organization's future and promised to work diligently for a larger membership.

NEGRO FARMERS CONFER IN THE COURT HOUSE IN THIS CITY TODAY

A LARGE ATTENDANCE

Listen to Very Able and Practical Speeches on the Subject of Health, Education, Fertilizers, and a Variety of Subjects; They Pay Close Attention.

A more attentive body of men never gathered than the negro farmers of the county here today, in line with the Live at Home program of Governor Gardner, and carried out by Supt. Curtis and Principal Howard of the Wilson Negro High School.

Prof. Howard presided and introduced the speakers, who discussed a variety of subjects, all of which were very pertinent to the subject and of great value to the farmers.

Of course the matter of "Live at Home" was stressed, but better than that the health of the negro was discussed, from the standpoint of a well-man being an efficient man and feeling able to work and not lose his time, by Dr. Smith. The value of educating the head from the chin up as well as the body from the chin down and the difference in value of this by Professor Curtis, who told them of a man who went to a builder and asked him for a job, and he asked what he could do, and replied that he could do anything. But when asked what specific thing he could do, replied nothing. He said I will pay you a dollar and a quarter per day for your body from your chin down, but if you could do any one of these things that I asked you I could pay you $4.50 per day, from your chin up.

Mr. Curtis also told them that it made no difference whether the landlord or the tenant was to blame as to whether the living was raised on the farm. If it was not raised and it required everything to pay for the living it was the same thing and had the same effect. He said that many farmers will require their tenants to plant their gardens in the middle of their tobacco and cotton patches so that they would plow them as they plowed their money crops, and others would require them to cultivate their garden every Monday morning.

Mr. Curtis said that the landlords should see to it that the gardens are planted and cultivated, and that enough is raised to feed man and beast. He urged cooperation between the landlords and tenants and encouraged the negroes if possible to own their homes. He thought that a man was a better citizen and took more pride in his work if he owned his home.

Dr. Smith told them about the necessity for pure drinking water and to get away from the open wells, which accumulated many things that cause sickness. He told them to drive their wells and place a pump therein.

He talked of vaccinating for typhoid, diphtheria, and smallpox and the necessity for having a well balanced ration to prevent the rickets, and pellagra. He urged them to come to the health department which was for them, and find out how to live of tuberculosis cases among the negroes, and how they could ward off that disease by making themselves well and strong.

Mr. F. N. Bridgers gave them a very interesting account of the different elements that go into the making of fertilizers. He told them that while this land required commercial fertilizers, yet the results were much better if the land is properly prepared and there is more feed raised which means more humus on which the fertilizer acts. He urged them to raise their own fertilizer as much as possible, and told them to save their ashes and hog hair when they killed hogs and to place these in a covered pen, and haul it out and mix in the spring. He mentioned the amount of fertilizing elements in these things.

Professor T. S. Inborden, of Brick College for negroes at Enfield also delivered a splendid address. He confirmed what Dr. Smith said about wells and the necessity for pure water. He showed that a number of students had died from typhoid contracted before they came to school from impure water.

He also told them how to raise chickens and the value of good stock and how to test eggs, and care for little chickens and the necessity for caring for them and giving them clean food and water at all times.

He also told them the value of honey and how it was necessary to keep bees in order to pollinize the growing crops.

C. R. Hudson, state agent of extension work, also spoke and paid his attention to an increased yield in corn, by intensive farming and cultivation. He suggested that the acreage of tobacco be decreased, and that corn and other home products should be planted in its place. He cited instances where this procedure in other counties had met satisfactory results. While he talked about corn he did not leave untouched other vital farming activities, which would bring success to the farmer if carried forward in a proper manner.

Mr. Hudson has been in agricultural work for thirty five years, and spoke in the most practical way concerning the things which farmers should do. He believes that landlords and tenants are on the verge of a better understanding and a finer cooperation for the success of both. In all points Mr. Hudson's speech to the negro farmers was practical and very informational, and in shape to put into execution this year.

The Domestic Science Teacher in the Wilson High School, Jane Amos, gave them a very interesting account of the proper diet, and the foods to eat to make a well balanced and nutritious meal. She said that it was necessary to raise the living of the farm in order to get this balanced ration, and thus help to conserve the health of the people of the county.

Prof. Howard presided, and introduced the speakers, and made very happy talks in his introduction, not only of the speakers, but of the great economic importance of "Live at Home" and said that he hoped that every negro farmer in the county would profit by this conference.

The Glee Class of the College sang in very fine voice a number of folk lore songs, and made a fine impression.

NEGRO FARMERS MEETING
The Greene County negro farmers, realizing the necessity and value of a demonstration agent and being told by the county commissioners to raise funds, got busy themselves to raise the funds. They organized a farmers club in each of the 19 districts in the county, then brought them together for a county organization. They then proceeded to raise the funds.

Lighter Named Head State Negro Farmers

(Special to The Journal)
Greensboro, July 25—J. T. Lighter, of Mecklenburg County, was today elected president of the North Carolina Negro Farmers Conference which tonight concluded its 12th annual meeting at A. and T. College. J. W. Mitchell was named secretary and treasurer and J. W. Jeffries, his assistant. Both are connected with the college faculty.

NEGRO FARMERS HEAR LIVING AT HOME URGED Need For Diversification Stressed in Conference at Wilson

Wilson, March 22.—A conference of Wilson County Negro farmers was held in the Court House today with an attentive body of men listening to the outlining of Gov. O. Max Gardner's "live at home" program and launching a movement for the betterment of living conditions and the health of the average Negro. The conference was presided over by Principal Howard, of the Negro High School, which sponsored the meeting. Speakers at the conference were Prof. K. R. Curtis, superintendent of the county school system; Dr. L. J. Smith, county health officer; F. N. Bridgers, prominent local manufacturer; and C. R. Hudson, State extension agent. Principal Howard T. S. Inborden, of Brick College for Negroes, and other prominent Negroes participated in the discussion of matters of importance to the farmers.

North Carolina Farmers in 12th Annual Session

8-2-30

GREENSBORO, N. C., Aug. 1.—The 12th annual session of the North Carolina farmers conference has just closed. A two-day session was held at A. and T. college July 24-25. One group discussed "The Fall and Winter Garden," led by Prof. S. T. Brooks, and another group discussed "Soil Improvement," led by Dean M. F. Spaulding. "Fall and Winter Gardens" was discussed by C. R. Hudson. Paul Lindley of the Greensboro nurseries talked on "Home Orchards." Prof. J. W. Mitchell, district agent, gave a moving picture showing to the farmers the care of baby chicks. Prof. C. W. Sheffield, professor of agricultural economics at A. and T. college, Raleigh, gave many points in statistics and concluded that the trend had been from the production of feed and food crops to the production of cash crops and that the live-at-home program was justified. Dr. W. W. Shay, swine specialist of the United States department of agriculture, stated that farmers will likely keep hogs at a loss unless they are able to supply the animals with all the food they need.

Friday's session was conducted at the A. and T. college farm. Prof. B. H. Crutcher, head of the college dairy department, and Prof. J. W. Jeffries talked on "The Dairy Cow" and "Living at Home." Prof. T. S. Smith, head of the college poultry department and Prof. J. C. Hubbard, local agent, talked on "Poultry."

S. J. Kirby, pasture extension specialist, talked to the farmers at the A. and T. barn on "Pasture Development" and stressed the importance of providing pasturage before securing livestock. The main feature of the Friday program was the "live-at-home" dinner, which was served in the A. and T. dining hall.

J. F. Lytle was elected president of the farmers conference; J. W. Mitchell, district agent, was elected secretary treasurer, and J. W. Jeffries was named assistant secretary. It was voted that the 13th session would be held at A. and T. college, Aug. 5-7, 1931.

There was also a round-table discussion on "Home Ownership," led by Prof. Berry O'Kelly of Method, N. C. He emphasized the importance of a right citizenship with power to vote.

Wilkinson, president, State Colored college, Orangeburg; 8 p m., open air motion picture free for all, "How to Live at Home on the Farm."

Conferences, Farmers - 1930

HAMPTON FARMERS' HOLD CONFERENCE

Hampton, Inst. Va. July 18—The annual Hampton Farmer's Conference was held Wednesday and Thursday, July 17 and 18, and brought together one hundred and sixty-seven farmers, farm women, and rural leaders. The program included addresses by Dr. W. J. Spillman, specialist office of Farm Management, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.; J. R. Hutcheson, director of Extension Work in Virginia, and Miss Maude E. Wallace, state agent for Home Demonstration Work in Virginia.

Dr. Spillman stated that the five major crops of the United States, cotton, wheat, corn, oats, and hay, were being produced in greater quantity than the demand at present justified. The problem of alleviating the condition of farmers who are depending upon these five crops is exceedingly difficult. Addressing more particularly the farmers of the conference who are large growers of other crops like tobacco, peanuts, and early potatoes, Dr. Spillman advised the use of market news reports and the planting each season of those crops which were likely to be underplanted and which were likely to bring good prices.

Mr. Hutcheson spoke from wide experience with farming in all parts of Virginia and urged members of the conference to grow more of the crops which are in demand and to watch the market situation and be guided by the best advice which the Department of Agriculture and the Extension Service of the state could offer on the problems of what to plant and how to market the crop.

Miss Wallace, addressing the women's section of the conference, told of the importance of the woman in the success and happiness of the home. She gave definite ideas for the setting of new and higher standards in the home, particularly in matters of clothing, food, sanitation, recreation, cheerfulness, orderliness, and politeness.

Miss M. Hodsden, extension specialist from Blackburg, Va., speaking of the immediate outlook in the poultry industry, pointed out that there were in cold storage on June 1 a million more cases of eggs than at the same time last year, and urged the culling of flocks of fewer but more profitable birds, and the use of more poultry products on the farm.

There were demonstrations and talks on "System in Farming" by J. A. Oliver, instructor in agricultural education; Farm water supply Systems and Farm Machinery," by M. S. Klinck, agricultural engineer; "Home Beautification," by A. C. Sims, florist; "Artificial Brooding of Chicks and Feeding and Care of Day Old Chicks," by F. S. Gammack, instructor in poultry; "The Summer Garden and Insects and Diseases," by J. S. Higginbotham, foreman horticulture department.

There were excellent moving picture shows on the two nights of the conference and an unusually fine band concert on the second night. The customary picnic at Shellbanks Farm enjoyed by everyone. It gave an opportunity for the men to watch the harvesting of wheat by the combine method and to see the operation of electric refrigeration in the dairy.

The pig judging contest at Shellbanks Farm with a twelve weeks old purebred pig as a prize was won by W. C. Williams, Halifax county, and the cow judging contest, with a Jersey heifer calf as first prize was won by C. W. White of Richmond.

Notice To The Colored Farmers Of Greenville County

The date for the 14th annual County Farmers' Conference of Greenville County this year is July 29th, 1930 and will be held at the Royal Baptist Church, North Emporia, Va., program beginning at 10:00 A. M.

This opportunity is taken to remind the farmers of this fact and to urge that every farmer who can will avail himself and herself of this opportunity and attend.

These conferences have proven a great benefit to the farmers of the county and it is hoped that this one will be more beneficial than any before.

The conference program will consist of reports, experienced talks, and addresses of timely interest.

So come and enter into the discussions on some of the most vital subjects confronting the farmers of this and other sections. Times like these we are passing through need a remedy. It is hoped that the conference will help us in getting apart of the remedy. Will you come?
